FRENCH NATION WILL STAND PAT

Free Sunday Afternoon Musicales Start This Week

Vesper musicales each Sunday afternoon from 5 until 6 o'clock, in the First M. E. church, Stilwell boulevard and Lake Shore Drive, are to be presented to Port Arthurians.

A number of men in the city have gotten together and arranged a program of vocal and instrumental music for the first of the vesper services next Sunday, and plans for the one to be given the Sunday following will be announced at this first vesper musicale.

Response of the musicians of the city and the board of stewards of the Methodist church have made possible the sponsoring of these vesper musicales by the News. The hour entertainment each Sunday afternoon is offered Port Arthurians with a view of adding to their Sunday afternoon diversions a bit of enjoyment that comes from hearing good music.

No admission fee for these vesper musicales will be charged, but a free will offering will be taken, the proceeds of which are to be turned over to some charitable organization in Port Arthur. The Day Nursery will receive the collection taken next Sunday afternoon, and other similar institutions in Port Arthur will be given the collections at the following musicales.

Opening the series of vesper musicales at this time of the year, when a dearth of similar attractions because of the summer weather, and the "between season" period is on, it is believed that the public will welcome the opportunity of hearing musicale programs on Sunday afternoons, and show its appreciation by attending.

These vesper musicales are not to be confused with the community sings formerly held in Port Arthur, for the audience will not be asked to take part in the musical program which the Port Arthur musicians will present. The vocal and instrumental numbers will be given without delays, and care will be taken to place songs and instrumental selections on the programs which can be appreciated by everyone.

Giving the program for the first musicale next Sunday afternoon, will be Joe S. Park, baritone; Tom Wilhelm, baritone; Jack Storey, tenor; Neal Rader, bass; Jimmy Carroll, tenor; A. F. Foster, tenor; Paul Bushong, baritone; the Sterling brothers, violinist and saxophonist, and E. H. McGuire, organist.

The vocal numbers on the program will be solos and those by a male quartette, composed of Storey, Foster, Bushong and Rader. An organ prelude, "Miserere," from "Il Trovatore," and a postlude, and an organ, violin and saxophone trio comprise the instrumental features of the program arranged for next Sunday afternoon.

WILL NOT QUIT RUHR TERRITORY

Reject All Propositions to Cut Payments

REPLY IS SARCASTIC

Declares England Takes No Heed of France

PARIS, Aug. 22.—France stands pat.

The reply of Premier Poincare to the British reparations note, made public today inflexibly upheld the French policy toward Germany, refusing evacuation of the Ruhr until payment is made and rejecting any proposal for reduction of the amount of German debt.

The reply contained little of the conciliatory tone which had been forecast and in many passages was bitter and sarcastic.

Starting with the first British point, Poincare said:

"I regret we cannot understand the British disappointment but unfortunately we cannot see the effort England has made toward rapprochement with France's ideas, that is, execution of the treaty of peace."

"Our resolution has been repeated a hundred times not to renounce one centime of reparations which are secured," the premier asserted, declaring England has taken no heed of what France considers essential and that the British note is basically uncivilized.

"I say that we cannot understand the British reasoning regarding Germany's capacity for payment, for Germany's capacity now is zero, by her own will," the reply declared, adding that the commission of experts to pass upon the capacity of the reich would be useless.

"Does England wish entirely to suppress Germany's debt on the pretext her capacity to pay temporarily is zero?" Poincare asked.

Lack of Accord

Referring to the British allusion to the "rights of others," the reply said:

"France does not need to be reminded of her duties."

"I regret our lack of accord with England," Poincare said, referring briefly to the British claim that occupation of the additional German territory is illegal. He dismissed the idea of referring the reparations questions to the permanent court of industrial justice at The Hague by asserting:

"We have no need to defer to the jurisdiction of anybody."

Destroyed Nothing

Poincare dismissed the charge that occupation of the Ruhr is endangering Europe by declaring:

"We have destroyed nothing in the Ruhr. It's capacity for industrial production is stronger than ever."

Poincare only envisaged continuance of negotiations by suggesting that, if they were carried on either immediately or after cessation of resistance by Germany it would be profitable and given less publicity.

Poincare said France does not desire to remain in the Ruhr longer than necessary and has no political or annexationist aims.

It is not a fact, the premier said, that the French claims are of a nature to crush Germany or exceed her ability to pay.

France's propositions admit of amendments provided her principles are not infringed upon.

The reply was generally considered as maintaining inflexibility of the previous French attitude.

Coolidge Takes Hand in Coal Strike

CONFERENCE OF CHIEFS CALLED

Operators and Miners Are Ready for Cessation TO PROTECT PUBLIC

Government Officials Are Ready to Act

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—President Coolidge today took an active step to prepare the country for the emergency of an anthracite strike.

He called to the White House for a conference on the situation.

Chief W. R. Wadleigh, federal fuel distributor and Clyde B. Atchison, one of the Interstate Commerce commissioners.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—President Coolidge today faced his first national crisis—national strike in the hard coal fields.

The tense, anxious atmosphere about the White House, Mr. Coolidge is calm and self-possessed. He acts like a man who knows that he is about and is determined to see it through.

Protect Public

But because his announcement the public would not suffer for lack of fuel in event of a strike and his advisers declaration that Mr. Coolidge is depending solely upon public opinion as a weapon, he has given no hint of his course of action.

There was discussion today in official quarters of the president calling the miners and operators to Washington on the wage question, which caused the latest deadlock.

The Deadlock

While the miners are opposed to arbitration on matters of principle, such as the checkoff, the question of wages, it was pointed out, involved only matters of fact.

With the question of wages settled, some officials believe an agreement in temporary at least keep the mining region calm.

All talk of a special session of congress was regarded as idle in view of the president's opposition to that course. Resort to an injunction, the legality of which is seriously questioned, was likewise believed to be remote.

COVINGTON IS FINED BY JUDGE

Ignored Orders of E. A. McDowell

BEAUMONT, Texas, Aug. 22.—Chief of Police W. W. Covington of Port Arthur this morning was fined $100 in the 60th district court by Judge E. A. McDowell for failure to appear in the case of eight Port Arthur men imprisoned at Port Arthur following the killing last week of Detective Harris.

Covington will be asked to appear and show cause why this fine should not be paid. In placing the fine, Judge McDowell said that the orders of this court are too frequently ignored.

He said he instructed Covington to appear this morning and "would now see what effect the fine would have."

The case involves the custody of Jack O'Rourke, N. E. Christian, Ralph Spence, Guy Chadwell, C. L. Brown, J. L. Cooper, R. D. May and J. W. Ferrell.

All eight men were released this morning in the custody of their attorneys, who promised to produce them with the appearance of Chief Covington.

JURY CHARGED IN PEART CASE

Testimony Completed This Morning

DAUGHTER TESTIFIES

Denies Statement Made By Her Father

All witnesses in the Peart trial for murder had testified by 10 o'clock this morning and Judge George T. Otis, began immediately his preparations of the charges to the jury. This will be delivered this afternoon after which the defense and state will make their final arguments.

BEAUMONT, Aug. 22.—(Special to The News).—Contradicting the testimony of her father, Mrs. Peart, daughter of T. B. Peart, defendant on trial for the murder of Albert O. Poter, denied on the witness stand this morning that she had asked Poter not to call on her, a point raised by the defense in yesterday's session.

In giving his reasons for the shooting, Peart testified that he feared for the safety of his daughter because of Poter. He told of the meeting at the daughter's home in Port Arthur declaring that Mrs. Achee had told Poter not to come.

Peart, Divorced

Mrs. Achee related this morning that Poter had come to her home unannounced. She said he came merely to inquire after her mother who was out of the city at the time. She said they talked briefly on the porch of the house and her father was inside the house at the time.

She declared that Poter had never called at the home either before or after this and that her relations with Poter were entirely proper. She further testified that her father and her mother were divorced at the time of the visit. She stated that she was certain her mother and Poter were engaged to be married at the time of the shooting.

Peart Poter

Palmer Achee, her husband, was called to the stand by the state and testified that he knew Mrs. Poter well and entirely approved of "Peart's" relations with Mrs. Peart. He stated he had always found Mr. Poter a high type of man and he was convinced that the two loved each other.

G. P. Williamson and Roy Anderson, the latter a Port Arthur undertaker, both testified for the defense that Poter was armed with a gun when his body was examined after the shooting. However, on cross examination they said the gun never had been removed from its scabbard as nearly as they could make out.

Peart on Stand

T. B. Peart took the stand in the night session Tuesday and stated there had been three reasons for shooting Commissioner Poter. Self-defense, the attention being paid Mrs. Peart by Poter, and the fear that the dead man was going to break up Peart's daughter's home.

Peart was asked if he would have killed the man had self-defense been the sole reason and he was undecided.

In his own defense, Peart stated he thought Poter was going for a (Turn to Page 2, Column 2.)

GIRLS, NUDE TO WAIST, IN SHOW

Theater Goers Startled in New York TRY TO RIVAL PARIS

And Nudity Is Not the Only Daring Feature

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Show girls nude to the waist have appeared on Broadway, posed frankly in the glare of full lighting, in a review which has just opened here, they constitute New York's most daring production of the Folies Bergere of Paris where the undraped female form has been a common sight on the stage for several seasons.

Even the blasé Broadway audience appeared stunned when the curtain rolled up at the New Shubert theatre "artists and models" and the people realized what they were looking at. There was silence for a moment, then scattered handclapping, loud laughter from the gallery and a few groans and hisses.

Extra Seats Needed

The girls are the central figures of "Still Pictures." While the "pictures" is revealed, other members of the cast carry on the performance in front of the frame.

At the second night of the production, extra seats had to be installed to accommodate the crowd. Standing room was eagerly sought and long lines of people stood at the box office.

The show was evolved from a modest little revue recently staged in New York by a number of prominent magazine illustrators.

Programmed as "contributing artists, authors and composers" are James Montgomery Flagg, Edward Benfield, Clara Briggs, Ralph Goldberg, Fontaine Fox, George Herriman and other well known illustrators and cartoonists.

"Cuss Words"

What part they played in the creation of the full grown revue is not stated.

Nudity is not the only daring feature, "cuss words" seldom heard in polite society are bandied about with cheery nonchalance, while a burlesque on "rain" a current dramatic success, is used as a peg on which to hang more smoky language than Broadway ever heard over the footlights before.

COLD WEATHER IS REPORTED

Drop of 22 Degrees Is Noted North

Because of the "high" overhanging the north central portion of the United States, that territory experienced the coldest weather of the summer. At North Platte, Neb., the mercury dropped to 38 degrees setting a new low seasonal record.

Drops of 22 degrees at Des Moines, 24 at Kansas City, 18 at St. Louis, 14 at North Platte, 16 at Dodge City, 12 at Amarillo were recorded.

It is doubtful whether the effect of these drops will be felt as far south as Port Arthur, according to Weather Observer Gerson. Regular winter rapidly characterized the moving of the "high" spots over the North American continent during the past two days. The high pressure bringing the low temperature yesterday to the central west was hovering over Canada Monday with a less higher pressure than over the central west. Yesterday the Canadian high moved down over the central west and forced the high temperature to the North Atlantic seaboard.

CAT KIDNAPS 6 LITTLE KITTENS

Mystery Surrounds Work of Police Station Pussy

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—Police of the East Twenty-second street station are baffled.

Under their collective noses a desperate criminal has made away with six children, has yawned in the face of the third degree and has defied the best "hunch" efforts of the gum shoe squad.

The criminal has broken jail and is at liberty in the captain's office—on his desk, in fact.

The criminal is Minerva, named for the Greek girl's impersonation of the "wise guy" of today. Minerva is a grey cat which walked into the station house five months ago, at the same time Captain Hubert Callahan took charge.

Since that time Minerva's habits have been entirely satisfactory, until the Cats' Stork, Inc., deposited six kittens in the station house.

Utterly at a loss, Minerva climbed under the desk and nibbled Lieutenant Foley's shoe laces and he ordered the youngsters and Minerva to imprisonment in a locker.

Later the police found that they could not get Minerva out of the locker that they put her into. Later still, when the door of the locker still locked, Minerva was found wandering about the station house, but the kittens had vanished. Detectives developed the clue that Minerva had been seen in the street, carrying them one at a time in her mouth toward First avenue.

She merely yawned when questioned.

LINDSAY, Cal., Aug. 22.—Confronted with the choice of facing a coiled rattler, or jumping backward over a 100 foot cliff, Newton Fox, senior patrol leader of the Argonaut troop of Boy Scouts, on their annual camping trip, chose the cliff.

Nine hours later Fox regained consciousness, bruised from head to foot but with no bones broken. He is resting at his home here covered with bandages. Quick action and first-aid treatment of his brother Scouts probably saved his life.

HANKS, READS SIGN ON STOLEN MACHINE

CHESTER, Pa., Aug. 22.—Abandoned and damaged, the police found a new automobile, bearing Pennsylvania license 475022, at the side of the residence of Mrs. W. P. Van Gorder. It had evidently been abandoned by "joy riders," for the police discovered pinned to the seat a new blow-out pitch on which was inscribed:

"Dear Sir—Thanks for the car. We kept it in good order. We hope you are not mad. Sorry we broke your car. It was no good, anyway."

It was the property of Mrs. L. M. E. Dancer.

BOSSACK CHIEF TURNS FARMER

Former Royalty Favorite Is Now Working in N. Y.

YACHTSMAN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—A former bossack chief, who was a favorite of the Russian royalty, is now working as a farmer in New York. The man, who was a favorite of the Russian royalty, is now working as a farmer in New York.

After completing a high school education, he entered the Russian army. He fought in the Russo-Japanese war, and the World war, for his gallantry and his rapid advancement in rank. Colonel Haskell Sees Future Russia as a Power To Be Reckoned With in Future

MOSCOW, Aug. 21.—Watch Colonel Haskell, America will hear from him; he's one of her biggest men. That's what you hear in it, a man where millions of people think. Colonel Haskell is the greatest man in the world. He is on his way home after completing the biggest relief job in history. Haskell, as head of the American Relief Administration, fed 10,000,000 people a meal a day.

Now he is returning home simply as a colonel of the army. Yet at 54 his name is known throughout Europe for his work as chief of operations of the Second United States Army in France, director of American relief in Rumania, allied high commissioner for Armenia, director of relief in Russia, and European commissioner of the American Red Cross.

Haskell sees Russia, now recovered from famine, as a nation with possibilities second only to the United States.

"Russia has to be a great, important nation some day," he says. "I'd like to see it in my lifetime—but I won't unless foreign capital gets busy quickly; and of course foreign capital can't come in while the Soviet government takes its present position on foreign trade."

This is the picture of Russia that Haskell sees now:

"There is no famine, there is suffering due largely to poverty, unemployment and the destruction of life inevitable after war, revolution and starvation. But this suffering will not end until normal conditions are restored and Russia's trade revived sufficiently to permit her people to acquire what they need for the ordinary purposes of life."

Here's a tip he gives, perhaps for business men and diplomats as well:

"If the republicans are victorious, O'Toole will go back to Ireland to claim the estate, if they lose—he'll have to wait until conditions there are settled."

The fortune was left to O'Toole by a relative, he admitted today.

O'Toole fled from Ireland two years ago when he was threatened after refusing to remain with the "black and tan" police, he said. He was in the business since the past week and had his first success at things for a decade.

Mr. O'Toole suffers, somewhat, from rheumatism, but gets around nicely, but just had not been on the "drag" since before the old war.

From the east, he came to Texas, San Antonio and to Austin last April.

"It wouldn't be safe for me to return to Ireland now," said O'Toole, "I must wait for the results of the elections. If the republicans win, I can go safely back. Meanwhile, I will stay here and await developments."

PLACE EMBARGO ON FRUIT TO AMERICA

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—A general embargo on the importation of fruits and vegetables into the United States, except from Canada, was announced today by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, to become effective November 4.

"Russians are a very different people to understand. Usually it takes from two to three years to get on to their mentality. You must know when to jolly them and when to bully them. Bullying them all the time won't get you anywhere. Besides, you make bad friends. It's much easier to do business, anyway, when you make good friends."

Judge Shows Nerve When Told to Open Jail by Gun Man

PAWBUKA, Okla., Aug. 22.—H. E. Wilson, kindly faced, white-haired justice of peace at Fairfax, near here, was today called the "nerviest" man in his home town.

A man walked into Wilson's office, put a gun before his eyes and demanded release of the prisoners in the jail at the rear of the justice's office.

Looking into the barrel of the gun, Wilson clutched the jail keys tightly in his pocket and said:

"Go to hell."

Entry of City Attorney Charles Johnson at this moment frightened the would-be jail deliverer and he leaped through a window and escaped.

BUTCHER ADMITS TINY WIFE FLOODED HIM

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—In a counter claim for separation on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment, filed in the supreme court in Brooklyn, George Rothback, 5 feet and 11 inches tall and weighing 180 pounds, admitted he let his wife, 4 feet 3 inches tall, knock him down repeatedly and beat him because he was "tall man."

Rothback declared also she had persuaded him to sell his meat markets and gave her the proceeds, then left him and sent him a postal card on which was written:

"There's a sucker born every minute."

BASHFUL GHOST SHUNS WHITES

Negroes Able to See Him, But He Dodges Whites

RAHWAY, N. J., Aug. 22.—Rahway has another weird mystery—a ghost mystery in an abandoned house on the fringe of a field where a young girl was murdered many years ago—the ghost of the old Pratt mansion.

Negroes in the vicinity assert it appears nightly, but none of the white investigators who have searched the grounds has yet been able to find it, although they have searched the place almost daily from cellar to garret.

The Pratt mansion is in a remote part of the town and is reached through a dismal line which winds gloomily beneath the low-hanging trees.

Some say the ghost is a spirit guardian remaining to protect the house from further vandalism, but others say it is a former occupant who has come back to the once gay scene; for the old mansion in years gone by was the scene of much gaiety.

It is claimed that the ghost appears on the front porch and in the windows of the house. Many persons gather in the field opposite the place nightly and look in vain for the apparition.

MAN HANGS HIMSELF ON THE CHURCH ALTAR

ATHENS, Aug. 22.—When the curtains were withdrawn from the pulpit morning service in the Athens cathedral, the horror-stricken congregation saw the body of a man hanging from a bar under the canopy.

The man was a Greek refugee who had been a preacher of a Constantinople church and who had been required to fulfill the office of candle-lighter in the Athens cathedral. Hunger and privation had preyed on his mind.

Little Old Lady Is Thrilled by Train

Fort Worth, Tex., Aug. 22.—"Trains are right good things to get a body about." That was the beginning of a conversation between an old lady of 85 years, and the woman in charge at the Travelers' Aid bureau at the T. and P. station. The elderly woman had come from Mississippi to visit relatives near Fort Worth.

Scarcely two weeks ago she left Mississippi to visit a daughter in Oklahoma. It was her first train ride. She said she had always been afraid of "those things because you could never tell when one of them was going to leave the track."

"But you know," she said, "I've ridden all the way from Mississippi to Oklahoma and back here to Fort Worth and nothing has happened. Sometimes I got scared when it rucked a lot, but the thing stayed right on the track. I like them, too, because they certainly do move. Why, you know, it hasn't been any time since we left Oklahoma. Sure does beat a buckboard and a mule all to pieces."

JURY IN PAYNE CASE GETS LOCKED AWAY

AMARILLO, Aug. 22.—The jury in the case of D. L. Payne, on trial at Canyon for the killing of J. Sweeney at Crosbyton on May 14, was locked up tonight at 10 o'clock after having considered the case for five hours without reaching a verdict.

Failure to make an immediate report was a surprise to many who had kept up with the case, and who had expected an acquittal for the defendant at an early hour.

YOU AND I

GENEROSITY
Ernest L. Sawyer advertises in the London Daily Express: "On the day it is proved that the grafting of an eye can be performed with a reasonable certainty of success, I shall be willing freely to share my gift of sight with any poor English man, woman or child who is blind, whose circumstances can be vouched for, and the advisability of whose case is recommended by a responsible authority."

There is always hope for a world that has generous humanitarians like Sawyer, forerunners of a day when the brotherhood of man will be so world-wide that generosity like the gift of an eye to an unfortunate fellowman will be customary.

Life is never any more in-eradicable than humanity makes it.

SPEEDERS
Sweden, determined to check auto speeders, passes a national law making it compulsory for all autos to be equipped with speedometers that will make a record showing how fast the car has been run. No arguments with the traffic cop then.

Unfortunately, after passing the law, the Swedish Riksdag discovers no such speedometer has been invented. We'll have such devices in America eventually. Also, as autos approach the saturation point, we'll have to gear cars down so it will be impossible to run them more than say, 20 miles an hour.

GOLD
Ancient alchemists sought a method to create gold from cheaper substances, especially lead. Modern alchemists seek to destroy gold, says Dr. Paul D. Foote, government scientist, because one gram of gold destroyed by transformation into electrical energy would be worth $2,000,000 at the present price of electricity.

The chief goal of modern science is how to release the energy locked up in the atom. The discovery will be made some day. Political revolutions fire our imagination, but the greatest of all revolutions is the industrial one that is taking place in our generation.

DANGER
A schoolhouse burns down every day in America, on the average, warns Dr. George D. Strayer, Surgeon. Luckily, most of the fires are at night.

In educating children, we neglect the important item of teaching them the dangers of fires, how to extinguish fires and how to escape when trapped in one. This form of education should begin in the home. Drill into your children's minds that fire is the most perilous force harnessed by man.

FLOOD
Again comes a warning, this time from National Industrial Conference board, that the indebtedness of our state and local governments is becoming perilously large.

Ten years ago the combined debt of our states and municipalities was only $250 million dollars. Now it is $10,000 millions—10 billion dollars. That's nearly as much as our national debt, after subtracting the billions owed to us by foreign governments.

LET'S GET TOGETHER

The eyes of Texas are on Port Arthur. The city is passing through an era of cleansing. It is placing its house in order for the future. It is not a pleasant job, but it is a necessary one and it can be made quicker and more efficient all around if a larger sense of responsibility is shared by its citizens.

As laws are made for the protection of its citizens these laws depend upon enforcement by their fullest co-operation with the authorities to whom they have given the reins of office in the conduct of its affairs. There can be no gainsaying the responsibility of the citizenship. It makes or mars. In every municipality each citizen is just as much in office as the men he elects to its government. He is its backbone and sinew. If he does not stand fast to his obligations as a citizen his officers are powerless. Officials conscientious in the conduct of their duties depend upon him to back them up.

Port Arthur just now is in a stage of transition. A better word might be regeneration. It is being cleaned up. It is being made a safe place in which to live. The old frontier is passing. The law has come to stay.

Never in the history of the city was there a more vital need for the fullest sort of co-operation as now.

The eyes of Texas are on Port Arthur. Is Port Arthur going to prove up? Is it going to be able to return glance for glance morally unafraid and unashamed?

That's something for its citizens themselves to determine. It is all very well to say, "Why I voted for So and So to do that. Let them do it. That's what they are for."

The citizen who halts at that has violated his suffrage. What he can and should say is, "I voted for So and So because I believed they would do it, and I mean to stand back of them to the last ditch and help them, in my capacity as a private citizen, every way that I can. I know they have a job ahead of them. Things can't be changed in a day and that is all the more reason why I must not stand back myself and expect them to go ahead."

On top of that Mr. Average Citizen should resolve:

"I will not let my interest as a citizen be thwarted by law-breakers who insidiously seek to stir up malice and discord among these officials I elect. I will not be too ready to jump at conclusions. I will not take anybody's word for this or that. I will find out myself. I realize that law breakers who have held sway in Port Arthur for years will attempt to create dissensions among officials in order to divert attention from themselves when things begin to get hot for them. As a citizen I will use my head in ferreting out the underlying motive and see that they do not get by with it."

Co-operation that co-operates should be Port Arthur's watchword. This is not merely the belief of The News. It is the expression voiced by thinking Port Arthur men and women who are looking ahead. Administration officials, police officials, department heads, all should co-operate among themselves and by so doing they can lay claim to a full spirit of co-operation among Port Arthur citizens.

THE WOLF OF WALL STREET.

Less than six months ago Piggy-Wiggly J. Clarence Saunders of Tennessee declared that the Wall Street wolf was after him and that he would defy the wolf and all the wolf cubs. There was a battle royal with most of the ammunition furnished by newspaper warriers.

Piggy-Wiggly goes on mightier than ever before but the gray wolf of the street got Saunders. It is a matter of history that the wolf of Wall Street gets most of the daring ones who come out of the provinces. It is also a matter of history that once upon a time, when the wolf was very hungry, the animal decided to make a meal of Henry Ford.

Henry broke the hind legs of the wolf and the animal limped on its forelegs from Detroit to New York and never returned to the Michigan City. Regardless of this the flivver man has been sleeping with both eyes wide open ever since. He knows the customs of the cunning and voracious and predatory prowler.

A distinguished American who has returned to New York from Europe while abroad interviewed Mr. William Hohenzollern. After the interview the distinguished American became convinced that Mr. Hohenzollern is crazy because the former autocrat declared he had messages from the dead, says he knows he is going to heaven when he dies and during the interview "spoke of nothing but religion." Remarkable! If Mr. Hohenzollern is crazy then he is not without company. Half the population of the entire world subscribe to the same view.

REASON WHY

John J. Stream is the head of the Chicago Board of Trade. He is a wheat financier. He grows grain in the pits. He says western senators are anarchists speaking of those who are for price fixing and who favor putting the grain gamblers out of business. The Chicago philanthropist says the wages paid to labor and the high freight rates are responsible for the deplorable plight of the wheat farmer. Gambling in futures has nothing to do with the case. Pit financiers are philanthropists. They sweat blood while engaged in their arduous work. They live from hand to mouth. They have to fight to keep shelter above their heads and food in their stomachs and all on account of the rail and labor hijackers. This is certainly a funny old world.

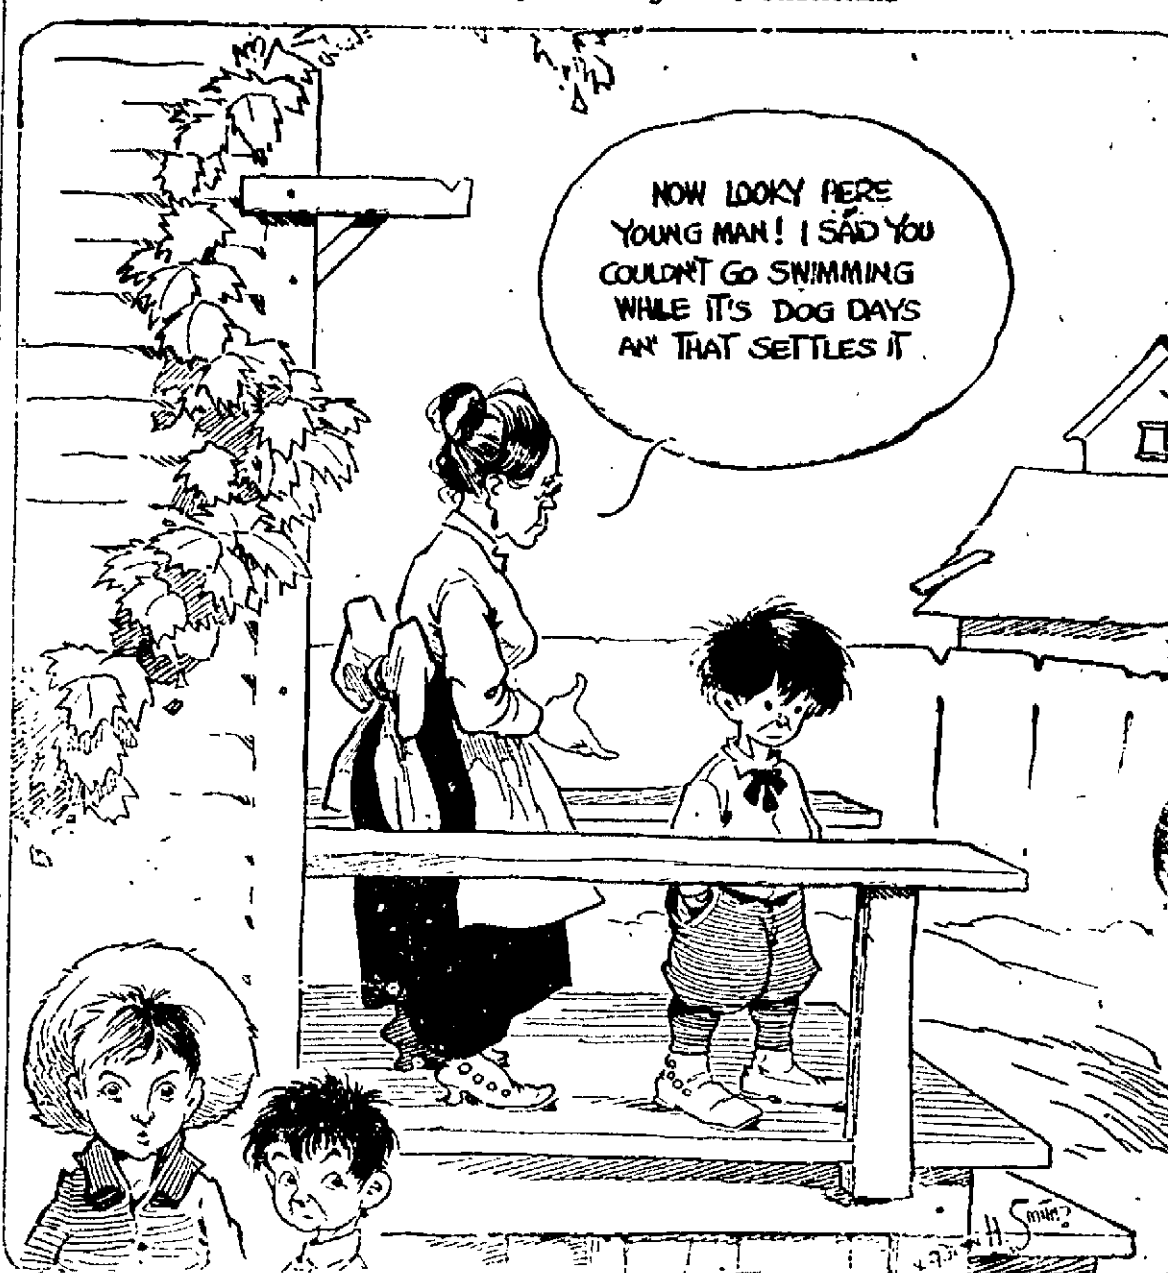

If steel is the American business barometer, then the skies are clear. Steel is increasing its bookings of new tonnage, more tonnage being booked in July than in the previous month, and so far in August new business has exceeded that of July. There is another building boom on in the east, another scarcity of skilled labor. Another sensational era of activity in eastern real estate circles and Wall Street is said to be satisfied with the governmental outbreak. If the wheat farmer has his, all the American world would be happy.

GOING SOME.

Speaking of business Alfred C. Told of Chicago should be given a place among the spot lighters. A year ago he was the Napoleon of the Indian Packing Company. He made a record for himself. The other day he became a bankrupt. He is more than four million dollars in debt and his assets consist of $1.70. There is a record which shows what a fast worker can do in America. His chief creditors are New York and Chicago bankers. How did he do it?

There is an Imperial valley in California. It was a desert waste not many years ago. Irrigation came not many years ago. This year twelve thousand freight cars handled the 3,450,000 crates containing 156,500,000 cantaloupes out of the valley. These melons were sold in the east, the largest market being New York City. These melon growers are co-operatives. They have their own selling agencies. This is what water and co-operation has done for the Imperial Valley of California. This is what it will do for the Imperial Valley of Texas.

Another Theory the Gang Can't Understand

FROM MRS. JOSEPH GRAVES HAMILTON TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

MY DEAR DAUGHTER:

I know you will forgive me when I say that it seems very good to be home again. I didn't want to leave you, child—you know that—until you were perfectly able to get along without me and I think you are now. Consequently, I have enjoyed my homecoming more than I can tell you.

Perhaps one of the reasons why I have been so happy is the thought that you are still alive. Oh, Leslie, now that it is all over I can tell you how my mind was tortured with the expectation of either losing you altogether or having the knowledge that you were shut up in some sanitarium unconscious of all of us who love you.

I shall never be grateful enough to that poor mother who left her baby just outside your door. She saved your life, my dear. All the medicine and all the brain of the greatest specialists in the country had no effect. All the great love of your mother and father and Jack, all the solicitude and sympathy of your friends did not keep you from slipping into the void of melancholia.

Sometimes, Leslie, I almost wish that poor mother knew just what she had done for you. I feel that you are still alive. Oh, Leslie, now that it is all over I can tell you how my mind was tortured with the expectation of either losing you altogether or having the knowledge that you were shut up in some sanitarium unconscious of all of us who love you.

I found, when I arrived home, that Sally Atchison and her husband were here. Just at present they are leaving with an arm of Sam's. A mother, who is old, capable and energetic. She has taken them both under her wing and I think it is in every way a splendid arrangement.

Poor Sam is at times very dependent, for Sally tells me that he is steadily getting better. He is now so almost any object that he is within 20 feet of him, although he can neither read nor write. He has taken his cousin, a son of the woman with whom he is boarding, as his secretary. He is just a boy just from college, who is anxious to learn the steel business.

That boy has been all over the place with Sam, your father says, and he has discovered everything that he saw to Sam, who has asked questions of every one. Sam has already made some suggestions to your father in the way of cutting costs, but he thinks are very fine and he is going to put them into practice right away.

Your father is very much pleased with both of the young men. He says that they will both work into Sam's back his eyesight. I am particularly pleased with Sam's cousin, Jimmie. He is so in his treatment of Sam. Almost any other boy as ambitious as he would come to times be impatient of the necessary slower methods of a blind man. But Jimmie, your father says, is never impatient and always listens to the answers of all the questions that Sam asks and shows his great attention by asking many of his own.

Sally is quite happy. She finds herself now in a position where she can take up her old outside work and I think it would be better for all concerned if she did so.

Have you heard from Alice since I came home. Have you?

Lovingly,

MOTHER.

Douglas MacLean Stars

Some of the cleverest comedy situations which have been screened since "Officer 666" took the country with it. Thomas H. Ince's latest production, "A Man of Action," when critics declare to be the fastest since "The Horizontal."

An original story by Bradley King, with Douglas MacLean, Marguerite De La Motte and Raymond Hatton leading a splendid cast, the production is a marvel of mystifying mirth that keeps everyone gasping and guessing and laughing as they guess from start to finish.

Monte's true mirth of it is the root of the troubles of Bruce MacAllister, the hero of the story, who never in all his life has done anything that wasn't proper. When his sweetheart jilts him out of his rut and the pugilistic nephew of his aunt proper brother takes him realize that he'll soon "be dead from the feet up" and probably knitting dolls in the bargain, he steps out for the eclipse of San Francisco's night life.

"Things happen with startling rapidity, one blundering funny situation developing into another even funnier until to cap the climax he finds himself mistaken for a notorious crook, black-jacked into joining a bunch of diamond robbers and locked up in his own house for 24 hours with the crowd that are trying to rob him of a half million dollars worth of diamonds. The set, the foundation on which his feet have been built, but that is thoroughly broken and he becomes "A Man of Action" at the Strand theater starting Thursday.

AT THE PEOPLES

Major Charles G. Norris, author, is opposed to morals, apartment houses, immorality, and life wives.

"Not that a man," explains the creator of the famous novel "Brass," a study of marriage and divorce, for an apartment house, or a life wife, but that these things cause unhappy marriages.

"The wife who lives in a little apartment, who is waited on by maids, who neither cares for her own home or her children, who rides in a limousine and doesn't even have to exert herself to catch a street car—she is the sort of wife who gets into mischief and makes a failure of marriage."

His "Brass" has been adapted for the screen by Warner Brothers, with Monte Blue in the starring role. The story deals with the unhappy married life of Philip Baldwin and Marguerite Baldwin, a young western couple. Marguerite is a willful little wife who prefers cabarets and boon companions to listless life at home. Each goes their different way after the divorce, through a series of love affairs that have great dramatic situations.

The supporting cast includes Marie Prevost, Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss DuPont, Margaret Seddon, Helen Ferguson, Edward Johnson, Harvey Clark, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett, and Alice Grey Terry.

Insulin, the new patent preparation for the treatment of diabetes, is the discovery, if such it may be called, of Dr. Fred G. Banting of Toronto, Canada.

Many efforts have been made during the past 20 years to carry the results of experiments in the use of pancreatic extracts into the field of therapeutics. No direct success was attained as the extracts contained some protein matter which rendered hypodermic administration unsafe.

Dr. Banting is the first to arrive at a real logical conclusion. Quite a large number of patients have been under successful treatment during the past six months.

The idea that a properly prepared extract of the pancreas, freed of its digestive action, would be of great benefit in the treatment of diabetes was confirmed. It was experimentally tested in the laboratory and found to show surprising results. First, with animals, then with great caution, on real patients.

Insulin seems to have the power of allowing the diabetic organism to burn sugar, thus causing sugar in the urine to disappear and blood sugar to drop to normal.

It has been given to patients, to bring them out of diabetic coma, long enough to overcome serious infections. Surgical operations, under its use, may be performed on the severest cases of diabetes. Best of all, it is claimed that it will permit development and growth in children and young adults, where formerly there was no hope.

Insulin is given to the patient, by hypodermically, three times a day, by food meals. It cannot be used without very careful diet control and must be administered by a physician.

To the sufferer from diabetes this new treatment—it is not yet termed a cure—comes as a welcome boon, almost a call to new life and action.

FLOGGER SUSPECT EXPECTED TO LIVE

TEXARKANA, Texas, Aug. 22.—Physicians attending Leonard Johnson, wounded when his brother, Clarence Johnson, was shot and killed in West Bowie, Texas, Thursday, have reported him improving with chances for recovery more favorable.

M. M. Tucker, railroad employee and his brother-in-law, who surrendered after the shooting, will be arraigned at Delkath, Texas, Monday.

The shooting followed the flogging of Miss Ollie Tucker, 11 years old, sister of one of the men charged with the shooting. Leonard Johnson is alleged to have administered the whipping.

BOY, 10, SAVES MAN FROM DROWNING

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 22.—Ten-year-old Murray Kalish of New York saved the life of Harry A. Yarish, a Brooklyn architect, at Mastic Lake, a few miles from here when he seized him as Yarish was sinking helplessly.

Swimming a considerable distance from Yarish, the boy hastened to the rescue when he heard the man's cries for help. Yarish's struggles nearly pulled his young rescuer under, but with the aid of others the boy succeeded in getting him to the shore.

His "Brass" has been adapted for the screen by Warner Brothers, with Monte Blue in the starring role.

The supporting cast includes Marie Prevost, Harry Myers, Vera Lewis, Irene Rich, Frank Keenan, Miss DuPont, Margaret Seddon, Helen Ferguson, Edward Johnson, Harvey Clark, Cyril Chadwick, Pat O'Malley, Gertrude Bennett, and Alice Grey Terry.

THE YELLOW SEVEN CHINA TEA!

BY EDMUND SELL. ILLUSTRATED BY RAY SATTERFIELD.

MEASUREMENTS: 1725

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Captain John Hewitt, Commissioner of Police at Jesselton, British North Borneo, has a beloved sister, Monica, who he has been to the front of him, leaning amiably in spite of a certain shortness of breath. Behind him, on the wooden stairway, a humpbacked coolie, a red paper umbrella stuck under one arm, carried between his two hands a thing that resembled a biscuit-box, shaped like a barrel, with a knob at one side and a handle at the top, the existence of which did not appear to have occurred to him.

"I trust I am not intruding, Mrs. Vincy?" He dropped uninvited into a chair. "I have hastened to proffer my apologies for my conduct this afternoon. I have not been very well, and the remnants of a fever from which I had been suffering went to my head."

"You see—I have brought my own tea," pursued the bandit cheerfully, taking the metal box from the dwarf—who promptly effaced himself. "It is one of our customs which must appear rather strange to you, Mrs. Vincy."

In ancient times, which—perhaps, are past—nobody could tell who were one's friends—and who were enemies. A very early method of dispatching one's enemies was poison. Hence this quaint portable passport. It was invented many centuries before your vacuum flask and yet it possesses certain of its qualities. Here we have the outer sheath a metal container simply, with a hinged flap to cover the spout. If I were to show you the inside—you would find a china pot with a bubbling oil around it of four-inch seven into silk."

Monica, her interest suddenly aroused, looked up at him. He was holding the thing as his servant had done—and no by the metal handle in the lid. He bent easily forward and placed it on the table before her, just clear of the tray.

"Don't imagine for one instant that I brought it here because I believed you would poison me," he observed with the innocent smile of a child. "It caught my eye as I left, and I fancied that it might serve to amuse you." With a deft movement he filled up the cup. "Observe the spout!"

Monica, carried away by the excitement of the afternoon, by the flood of apparently inconsequent chatter that flowed easily from the intruder's lips, uttered an exclamation of delight. A voice within her kept repeating itself over and over again, warning her to be on her guard. "That's a very serious matter," he said to her, "and I am sure you will find it very interesting."

"I was going to tell you where I now live. Are you afraid to come and see me, Mrs. Vincy?" "Afraid! Of course not. Why should I be afraid?"

"Are you afraid of—that?" He held the thing before her face—she clearly that she started back, momentarily incapable of visualizing it. Suddenly she clutched at the saddle and uttered a wild, piercing scream that set a colony of monkeys shrieking and gibbering in chorus. She was staring as if fascinated at a long, narrow strip of parchment, yellow and shiny, with seven black dots marked clearly on its surface.

A second later and the Chinaman had uttered a peculiar, guttural cry—and footsteps began patterning down the stairs behind her. "Chai-Hung!" she called out as if to pull her from the saddle.

The pony that had been peacefully feeding brought up its head with a sudden jerk, causing Chai-Hung to slip sideways, losing his balance; and Monica, the sneak bringing her to her senses, found herself raining blows from her riding-stock at the yellow horror at her side.

Before the ring of Chai-Hung's men could encircle her, she had picked up the parchment, flung it down wildly down the forest path, her attitude of soft curls blowing in the breeze.

She had a dim memory of the familiar outline of Dawson's bungalow, of a cookboy taking the reins from her trembling fingers, and then she knew that she was lying face-downward, in a long cane chair, sobbing as if her heart would break.

Centuries seemed to pass before she could muster up the courage to shout for the servant. "Where is the Tuan Hewitt?" she inquired huskily.

"He went out before morn'—and has not yet returned."

"Not back yet?" she echoed blankly. "And the Tuan Dawson?" "The Tuan-Hakim cuts the air also."

"Bla—," she said in a tone that signified dismissal. "And still the cookboy hesitated. 'Will the non-sense take tea?' 'Yes, I will have tea as soon as possible. I am very tired,' she added, as if an excuse were necessary. The boy had almost disappeared through the doorway when she called after him."

"Will you send one of the Tuan-Hakim's orderlies. I wish to speak to him."

"The master has taken them all. A messenger came to him, an hour ago, with an important paper. He was in a great hurry, for he did not stop to tell me when he would be back."

Dawson's servant, entering noiselessly, set the tray on the table in front of her. She glanced up, wearily to see the Oriental fall to his hands on the boards, flattening himself, his teeth chattering together like a man with the ague. Following the direction of his frightened eyes she became aware that a broad shadow had fallen across the floor. The color left her cheeks and her hand shook.

"The Passing of Zara-Khan," the next episode of this gripping series, will start in our next issue.

HE EXPECTED WIFE TO BUY CLOTHES

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Robert Finley was as kind as it is possible for a husband to be during the four months he and his wife, Mildred, were married.

Still, she wanted a divorce and it looks as if the circuit court was going to give it to her because for four solid months Finley has been waking her up and telling her it's time for her to go to work and swell the woman's indignation. Mrs. Finley testified that her husband had not worked one day in the four months because her salary wasn't as large as he thought it ought to be.

Mrs. Finley told the court she finally decided to get a divorce because he pitched her down stairs when she didn't bring him money to buy a suit.

Three weeks ago Miss Lamotte went to rehearsal stockings, because her one and only presentable pair had a hole that morning. "It took," she said, "and she hasn't been near a pair since. I knew it would; I felt certain sure that when Texans realized they were not getting Kellogg's Corn Flakes—and realized what they were missing—that our sales would go steadily up and up.

And, they have! Once folks get the extra-flavor, extra-crispness and extra-substantial flakes that have made Kellogg's Corn Flakes the largest selling ready-to-eat cereal in the world, they KNOW that they never before knew how good corn flakes could be!

This is just the time to start eating Kellogg's Corn Flakes!

Texas also buys great quantities of our Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, and Kellogg's Shredded Wheat—whole wheat flakes.

City Tennis Tournament to Be Held at Country Club Soon

Meet On Fast Clay Courts Open to All Local Net Players

Silver Trophies Offered by Jeweler W. P. McFarland and Instructor Neely To Be Awarded Winners in Tennis Contest

By BILL ARCHER.

HERE'S your chance, Tennis Fans! Your own tournament, to be known as the City Tennis Tournament, will be conducted at the Country Club courts beginning the week of September 3d.

The tournament will be conducted under the direction of Instructor Neely of the Country Club, and national tennis rules will govern the meet, which is open to all amateur players in the city of Port Arthur.

A beautiful silver tray and an attractive silver loving cup, both to be engraved with the names of the winners, will be awarded the girls and boys respectively who are victorious in the clash. The loving cup is offered for the male winner by W. P. McFarland, jeweler, and has already been ordered, while the girls' trophy, the silver tray, is already here and is offered by the winner in the girls' division, Mr. Neely. Both trophies will be placed on display in the McFarland jewelry store at an early date.

Arrangements for the City Tennis Tournament follows numerous requests from local tennis sharks, who urged that a meet for local players be put on. Through the courtesy of Country Club officials, the courts at the club have been obtained for the clash, and arrangements are being speeded up to completion for the big event which is planned to last approximately eight or ten days.

Instructor Neely let it be known yesterday that the tennis courts are being overhauled, clay is being put in and they are being placed in great shape for the tourney, which should attract every Port Arthur amateur to the place.

The entry list for the tournament is open, starting today, and will be kept open until Saturday, September 1st. Those desiring to enter the meet can do so by notifying Instructor Neely at the Country Club, through calling phone No. 5521. Pairings for the meet will be announced in the News sports pages on Sunday, September 2, for singles only; pairings for the doubles tournament will be announced at a later date.

Mr. Neely announced Tuesday that girls desiring to practice for the tournament would be permitted to use the courts at the club at any time during the morning hours, which boys who wish to get in form for the meet will have the privilege of the courts during any afternoon up to the date of the first round of play.

Numerous local tennis sharks have been taking advantage of the club courts recently, it was learned yesterday, both in the boys and girls divisions. John Holton, Harry Holton, Karl Erickson, Clifford Byrd, Elmer Woodworth, Edwin Golding, Felix Housholder, Dick Ellis are among the young men who have been using the courts, while among the girls Miss May Alice Walker and her sister, Miss Cora Walker have been seen in action on the courts several times recently. According to Instructor Neely, Miss Alice Walker plays a real game of tennis, shoots a hard ball, and will be a speedy opponent for any who enter the meet.

The tournament will be held on clay courts, both men and women of Port Arthur for a period of one year. Winners of the trophies, however, will return them permanently. It is the desire of the Country Club to promote clean athletics among the younger set of Port Arthur according to Instructor Neely and consequently the meet has been arranged.

The winners of the tournament will probably be sent out to sponsoring communities to represent Port Arthur in coming tennis events. It was learned yesterday when Sour Lake was in challenge here, and the trophies at least, are well worth winning.

Get in line, Tennis Fans, and notify Mr. Neely at phone No. 5521 that you want in on the ground floor. The meet will start off with a bang Monday afternoon, September 3.

TRAINS CADDIES HOW TO DO THEIR WORK

By ROY GROVE
WARRENSVILLE, O., Aug. 22.—Caddie service of any club can be only one of two things—good or bad. It all depends on the training or the neglect of training the little fellows have had.

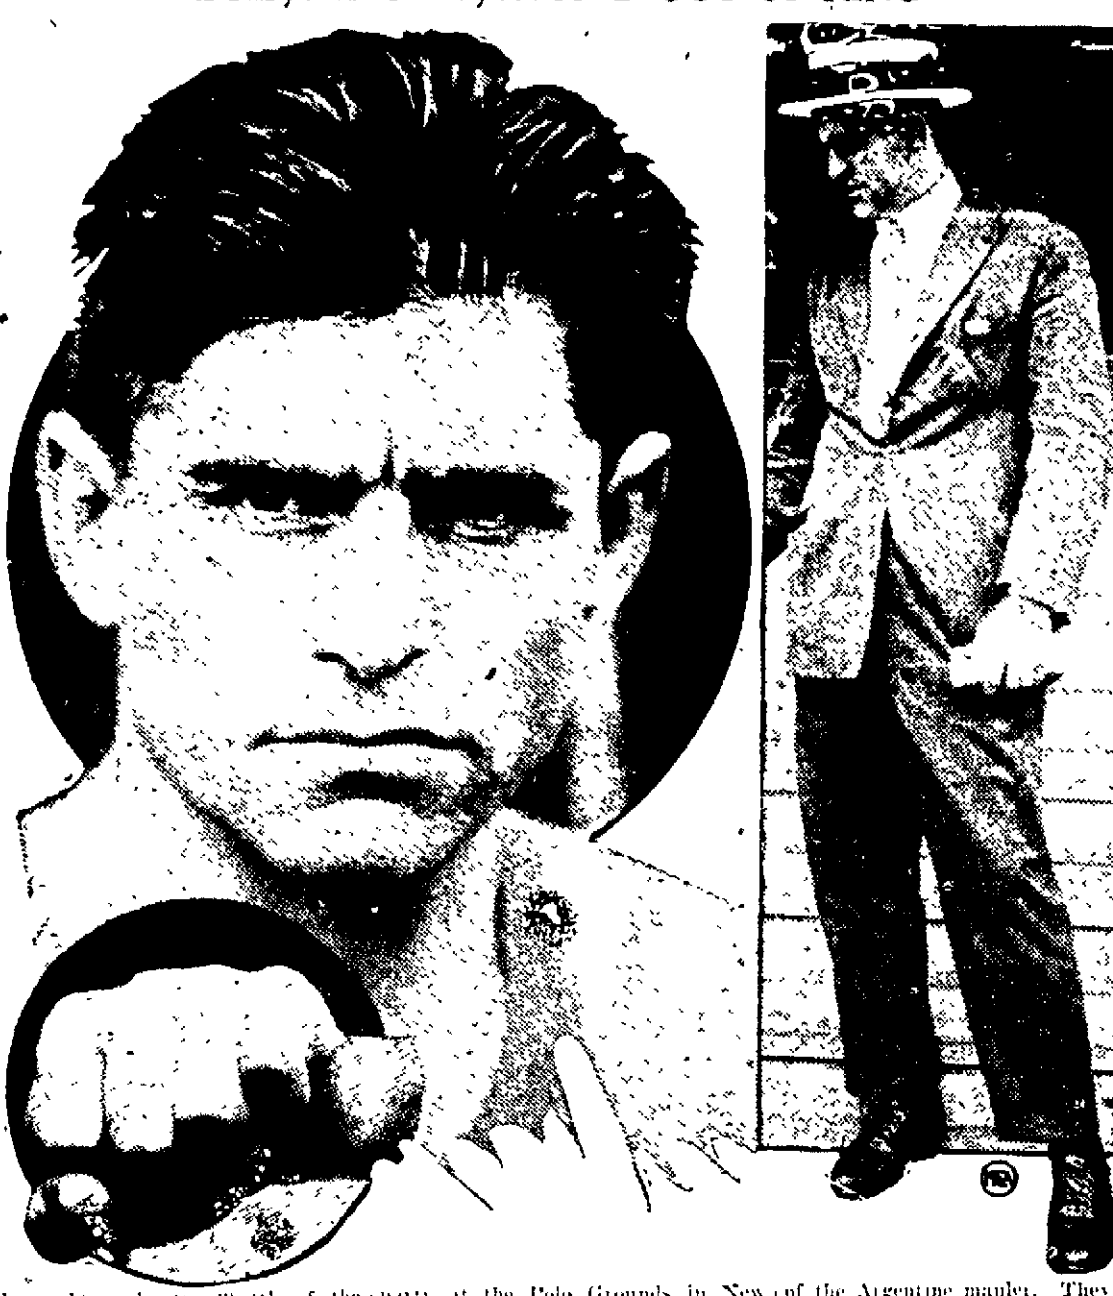

"Much may hinge upon the intelligence of the boy himself, but the majority will fall upon the shoulders of the caddie master and the balance will constitute the confidence the player will have in his caddie."

"This is nice," says George Haele, caddie master extraordinary of the Highland Park links, whom we may well define as the father and even sometimes the mother of the greatest crowd of caddies that ever lost a golf ball.

"A caddie is nothing more than a boy," missed George, "and he is a player would be better than his own."

There would be fewer high scores made on the links, but the same player thinks he has nothing more

LUIS, HIMSELF, IN AND OUT OF RING

It ought to be the "battle of the ages"—this go-between Jack Dempsey and Luis Firpo. Both strength and punching power probably will predominate over ring cleverness in their party at the Polo Grounds in New York, September 14. Both the champion and the "Wild Bull of the Plains" have started in on their training gym. Here are some late pictures of the Argentine mauler. They show him in a "ring" and his dangerous

GULF CONQUERS ISLANDERS, 10-1

Townsend, Black, Both Are Ineffective

The Gulf stepped another half game ahead yesterday, and, while Caldwell was dropping the Islanders with three scattered hits, topped the clash, 10 to 1 in a decidedly lopsided affair on Lake Shore.

Townsend and Black, both of whom occupied the pitcher's mound for the Islanders during the five-frame tilt, were ineffectual, and although the Gulf sluggers got away with only five hits, the Islanders made a total of six costly errors that helped push Gulf to victory.

Gilchrist, Johnson, Trauth and Curt Smith featured the batting for the day, the former two cleaning up two-base drive each while the latter pair were dished out a triple apiece. Numerous bases on balls at the expense of Townsend and Black placed the Gulf in a position to jump their win.

The League winners took their lead with five runs in the third frame, and after that the battle was a settled issue, with only the tell-tale fifth to terminate its length. In that frame, the Gulf added four more runs to their already six-run lead, and lunched the lopsided issue. The Islanders scored their lone tally in the fourth, when Gilchrist's double brought Townsend home after the latter had reached first through an error.

FORMER AIDE TO CZAR BRINGS FAMILY TO U. S.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—General Alexander Loukowsky, one-time aide to Czar Nicholas of Russia and chief of staff of the Russian army under General Brusiloff, arrived Tuesday with his wife, three children and several servants, on the President Wilson.
Because of the exhaustion of the Russian quota for August, the general with his family and attendants were ordered detained at Ellis island.
The general, who is 55, said he had come to the United States to begin all over. He plans to lecture and write. Since the collapse of the czar's regime the family has been in Constantinople. The general frankly admitted his wife as a weak woman, and that he did all sorts of odd jobs while working on his memoirs.

MAJOR WORKS PSYCHOLOGY TO BUFFALO BUSTER

"I do hope the bugs will stay away," said King Snookums.

"We're going to have a party!" cried all the little Pee Wee people. And they were so delighted about it that they rushed madly here and there as though they had lost their wits. They tacked up flags and strung paper lanterns, and really Pee Wee Land looked like the Fourth of July, or Fair Week, or a church social, or something like that.

All the Pee Wees were at home and nobody had been reported missing for a week.

"Name," said Nick, would have gone home only they had been invited to stay for the party.

"I do hope the bugs will stay away!" said King Snookums, when he had changed his everyday clothes of purple velvet to his party suit of gold and silver, and his everyday crown of little diamonds to his best crown of great big diamonds.

"Just as sure as these pesky lightning bugs and their friends come poking along, some of my subjects will take a notion to jump on them and ride off and we'll never find them," he complained.

But the bugs didn't come and the party was a grand success. The Twins danced with the Pee Wees by the light of the moon when all other little folk were in bed sound asleep.

Suddenly there was a dreadful sound. It went "Hoot! Hoot! Hoot!" And all the Pee Wees stopped dancing and ran under stones and leaves to hide. "Oh save us! Save us!" they cried "somebody."

Oscar Owl blinked and then he winked. "If I can't get a mouse I'll have to eat Pee Wees," he remarked, snapping his bill and looking around sharply.

Then suddenly Nancy and Nick saw a strange thing happen.

"All the lightning bugs and June bugs and other bugs that hadn't been asked to the party came trooping along."

"Jump on us," they cried, "and we will save you."

And the Pee Wees jumped on and so did the Twins, and soon Pee Wee Land was as empty as a drum. And (Oscar Owl) went home hungry.
